CLEMENCEAU WILL SEE WILSON TO-DAY

Colleagues of Versailles Will Meet for First Time Since Treaty.

WILL CALL ON HARDING

No Parade, No Shouting in Streets Upon Arrival From Baltimore.

HAS FAITH IN AMERICA

Says He Will Take Back Message This Country Still Loves France.

Special Dispatch to The New York Herald.

Woodrow Wilson and Georges Clemenceau will meet to-morrow for the first time since they parted at the end of the conference of Versailles in 1919. This reunion of the two great figures of the conference, both retired to private life, is expected to be the most dramatic event in Clemenceau's tour and the least reported.

Mr. Clemenceau arrived in Washington at 4:35 this afternoon. This sophisticated city had prepared no such engulging welcome as that from which he had emerged in Baltimore an hour earlier. Jules Jusserand, the French Ambassador, with Mme. Jusserand and members of his staff, was at the Union Station. The Administration was represented by Robert Woods Bliss, Third Assistant Secretary of State. Henry White, former Ambassador to France and delegate to the peace conference, who is Clemenceau's host in Washington, was also there.

Col. Edward M. House, one of the sponsors of the former French President's trip to the United States, joined him in Baltimore, but after riding part way to Washington with him in the private car went forward to another car.

No Shouting in Streets.

Aside from the official and hospitable welcome there was vigorous yelling from several thousand persons jammed into the concourse. That was all. There was no parade, no crowd or shouting along the streets as the party rode rapidly up Massachusetts avenue to the home of Mr. White, 1824 Crescent place. Clemenceau is in Washington merely as a citizen of France visiting a citizen of America. The time of his coming had not been widely announced and the preparations were all that etiquette calls for.

He will begin a lively four-day sojourn by calling on President Harding at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning. This will be a courtesy call lasting only a few minutes. If the two men are to discuss international affairs—no prophet is able to say that they will or will not—it is more likely to be on Thursday when Clemenceau will have luncheon at the White House.

It is the "Tiger's" purpose to drive from the White House to ex-President

Wilson's home to-morrow morning. Mr. Clemenceau looks forward to the meeting with genuine eagerness and it is understood Mr. Wilson will be glad to see him despite their differences of the past, particularly in view of the French visitor's recent assertion that it would be better for America to enter the League of Nations, which he does not like, than not to return to Europe at all. There has been talk of Clemenceau's addressing the Senate, but it is nebulous. No one can be found at the Capitol who knows whether he will do it or not. It is believed he would like to, and that if some one of his friends carries such an intimation to the Senate he will be heard. This despite his criticism of Senators Hitchcock and Borah in Boston on November 24, following sharp remarks from only other scheduled speech in his mission.

Rides Route of Lafayette.

Clemenceau wanted to go to Washington to Mount Vernon to-morrow in addition to paying his respects to Messrs. Harding and Wilson. He has been persuaded to postpone this until Wednesday. To-morrow he will meet several persons of interest at luncheon at Mr. White's residence. He will address the War College on Wednesday and in the evening he expects to speak briefly at a dinner of the Southern Society. His only other scheduled speech is to be made on Friday at a meeting of the National Chautauqua Association.

Baltimore's choicest hospitality was extended to Clemenceau this morning. The reception committee, headed by Mayor Lea, took him behind the dancing saloons of the Third Cavalry on a parade along the waterfront and through the city, over the route followed by Lafayette nearly a century ago. Schools were dismissed and their tenants were heard cheering by the thousands along the curb.

Mayor Broening sat beside Clemenceau and not far behind rode, triumphant, Albert, the Croix de Guerre valet. As in other cities, there were great crowds, but except for the school children little noise. The parade ended at the building of the Maryland Historical Society, beside a statue of Washington. The assembly room of the society, called by shelves of books, seats only 200 persons.

"America in Same Place."

Clemenceau said: "I am going to leave in a few days without having paid as long a visit as perhaps I ought to, but with the message I bring to my own people, 'Don't fear. America is in the same place; the feeling we thought she had toward us and which we have toward her is put on such a solid foundation that it cannot be moved forever.'"

Clemenceau, often assailed as a materialist, but blossoming into an idealist in America, closed with this: "Well, my friends, we have in Paris a statue of George Washington on his horse, and he is pointing his sword to the highest. Do not let an American come to the statue of our common hero and tell you to put his arm down. Always to the highest, never down."

For which the members of the Historical Society gave their best of applause. A young woman whose face betrayed no sign of her race stepped forward and handed him an armful of roses. "In recognition of your attitude toward the colored people," he said. "Thank you very much," and shook hands with her after taking the flowers. It may be noted here that the Third Cavalry's mounted band played "Old Black Joe" as Clemenceau paraded this morning.

SUTPHIN TRIED FOR MURDER.

Ten Jurors Selected to Decide Fate of Queens Editor.

Harry Sutphin of 77 Alsop street, Jamaica, for many years an editor and political leader in Queens, was placed on trial yesterday before Justice Patterson in the Supreme court, Queens, charged with manslaughter in the first degree for the killing of William Biermann on West October 4. Sutphin and Biermann were friends and the killing followed a night of drinking together in various saloons and restaurants in Jamaica. Sutphin contends that he shot Biermann in self-defense.

Only ten jurors had been accepted that night. Many were excused because of their personal acquaintance with Sutphin. Sutphin's newspaper has suspended publication until after the trial.

$25,000 CAR SEEN AT MOTOR EXHIBIT

Twenty-six Firms Show Most Expensive Products at the Commodore.

The eighteenth annual Automobile Salon, in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Commodore drew a big crowd last night. Business has been good since the salon opened, Sunday, and in practically all of the booths onmen were kept busy taking orders. W. C. Durant, president of the Locomobile Company, acted as salesman at the exhibit of the cars of his concern.

Twenty-six makes of cars are being shown, and, besides the United States, the manufacturers of England, France, Belgium, Italy, Germany, Austria and Spain are represented. There are also special custom body exhibits by twelve prominent firms. All of the cars are expensive, the lowest being a Fiat sedan, which is priced at $3,300. From that figure the prices range to $25,000, which is the cost of a Daimler-Benz sedan, finished in French ivory. The exhibit includes all types, among them the limousine, the brougham, sedan, town car, cabriolet, landaulet, coupe, roadster, touring cars and sporting models.

The exhibit displays for the first time many new fashions in custom built bodies, one that attracted much attention being the raised or offset panel. Makes exhibiting cars include Benz, Brewster, Cunningham, Daniels, Deussen, Fiat, Hispano-Suiza, Hotchkiss, Isotta Fraschini, Lanchester, Lancia, Mercedes, Museum, Panhard, Rollie, Rover, Hubay, Steyr, Sunbeam, Vauxin and Winton. "Coachmakers exhibit their bodies on Cadillac, Lafayettes, Lincoln, Locomobiles, Marmona, Packards and Peerlesses, while the coachwork exhibits include Brewster, Brooks-Ostrick, De Causse, Demarest, Fleetwood, Healey, Holbrook, Hume, J. B. Judkin, Le Baron, Locke and Ribay.

BIG TUNNEL CAISSON TO BE LAUNCHED TO-DAY

Will Be Used at Ventilating Shaft of River Tube.

The largest caisson ever designed for under water construction, weighing about 1,200 tons in its partly completed condition, will be launched this morning at the Staten Island Shipbuilding Company's yard and towed into dry dock in Mariners Harbor, where its cement-lining will be started. In about a week the caisson will be towed up the river to pier 25, off Canal street, and sunk into place as part of the ventilating system of the $20,000,000 New York and New Jersey vehicular tunnel. When finished the caisson will weigh approximately 15,000 tons. Engineers working on the vehicular tunnel reported yesterday that 62½ feet of the south tunnel, or Canal street shaft, has been completed, and the north tunnel, or Spring street shaft, will be started this month. The work is progressing on an average of 45 inches a day, but as high as 7½ feet of tunnel has been constructed in a day.

WANAMAKER MUCH BETTER.

Distinct Improvement Noted in Medical Bulletin.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4.—Distinct improvement in the condition of John Wanamaker, 61 at his home, was reported to-night by the attending physicians.

"The condition of Mr. Wanamaker," said the doctor's bulletin, issued at 8 P. M., "shows distinct improvement since yesterday."

THE STORY OF REVILLON FURS

The Camera in the North

Eskimos like to have their pictures taken and pose patiently and intelligently. They have none of the superstitious fear of portraiture found among some primitive peoples. They accept photography, phonographs and other toys of the white man with cheerful matter-of-course enjoyment.

Where busy men get quick action

THE STORES are so crowded with shoppers during the Christmas season, that going through the Yale line is no trick at all compared to arriving within striking distance of a salesman!

YET THERE is a way for men to do their Christmas shopping easily, quickly and with credit to their taste and good judgment. And, best of all, it can all be accomplished by a visit to one shop—Ovington's—the Gift Shop of Fifth Avenue.

HERE YOU will be able to select an appropriate present for anyone you know—from the Chairman of the Board to your wife's Aunt Margaret, whose peculiarities of taste make her so difficult a subject.

IN FACT, you may go straight down your Christmas list, getting things which are uncannily appropriate and, in little more than three shakes of a lamb's tail, you will be on your way back to the office—your Christmas shopping over and your duty well and economically done.
